

THE THREE LITTLE PIGS

Once upon a time there lived three little pigs called Didi, Titch and Squirt. The three little pigs were growing up quickly and their mother said that they had to find somewhere else to live. She gave each of the little pigs £500 to go away and build their own houses.

Before they left she gave them three pieces of good advice;

1. "To build a good sized house, you will need to buy building materials in packs of 10."
2. "Always spend your money carefully."
3. "Beware of the big bad wolf."

The first little pig, Didi, was very excited. He thought that £500 was a lot of money. He rushed into town to find something to build his house with. He went into the first shop he came to and found that they sold DVD cases and old magazines.

This is how much they cost:

If Didi had £500 to spend, which item did he buy?

Didi skipped away from the house happily. He went off to find some land nearby to build his house on. He was pleased with what he had built and he even had some money left in his pocket.

How much money did he have left?

The second pig, Titch, was a little wiser than the first. He didn't just rush into the first shop he saw. He strolled along the high street to find the biggest bargain. His eyes lit up when he spotted the 'Everything's a Bargain' shop! He jumped up and down with excitement. He was sure he was on to a winner. Just think what he could do with all of the money he had left over!

Here is one of the signs that caught his eye:

Titch was not that silly. He knew that one of the items would be no good as it would leave big gaps when he was building, so he looked at the other two.

If Titch had £500 to spend, which item did he buy?

Titch danced away from the house happily. He went off to find some land nearby to build his house on. He was pleased with what he had built and he even had some money left in his pocket.

How much money did Titch have left?

The third little pig, Squirt, was the wisest pig of them all. He went to a building shop.
